AN INVITATION TO HELP US CONTINUE THE INNOVATION

As chairman of Susquehanna Health's new Continuing the Innovation Capital Campaign, I can confidently point to what a community investment in healthcare innovation can yield. Innovation has changed the face of healthcare in our community in just a few years. With tremendous community support, Susquehanna Health significantly advanced its facilities and technology and attracted talented specialists and other medical professionals to our community.

We have come a long way, but we must continue to innovate and build upon the work we have done to secure the future of our locally based health system in the midst of the challenges of healthcare reform and outside competition.

The Continuing the Innovation Capital Campaign supports the next targeted step in our 20-year master plan to ensure excellent quality and safety, the best technology, the most advanced facilities and the top healthcare providers for our community. This campaign aims to exceed the expectations of our patients and providers in the most cost-efficient manner with:

Construction of a Health Innovation Center connected to the new Susquehanna Tower at Williamsport Regional Medical Center to unite specialists, advance diagnostics and provide treatments in a comfortable, efficient setting

- Expansion and renovation of the Emergency Department at Muncy Valley Hospital to meet the growing healthcare needs of the eastern Lycoming County population
- Incorporation of the da Vinci[®] surgical system, the gold standard in minimally invasive robotic surgery, at Williamsport Regional Medical Center

KEITH S. KUZIO » CHAIR » CONTINUING THE INNOVATION CAPITAL CAMPAIGN

• Development of a state-of-the-art clinical and teaching facility within the Health Innovation Center for the Williamsport Family Medicine Residency Program to elevate the program and attract talented medical professionals while ensuring continued access to primary care in our region.

As a business leader, I value having an excellent community healthcare system that enables us to attract top professionals to the area. As a son, husband and father I value the security and convenience that comes from knowing the medical expertise we need is minutes away.

As chairman of this new Capital Campaign, I invite you to join me in Continuing the Innovation at Susquehanna Health. With your financial support we can keep pace to be here for you and your loved ones with the superior care, specialists, convenience and efficiency you expect for generations to come.

Residency Program Addresses National Shortage of Family Physicians

Generations of Graduates Continue to Serve Our Community

Within the next eight years, our nation faces an anticipated shortage of 40,000 FAMILY PHYSICIANS.

 American Academy of Family Physicians One of our most valuable assets at Susquehanna Health is the Williamsport Family Medicine Residency. This hidden gem has been attracting, training and retaining quality physicians for the past 40 years. Accepting just seven out of more than 800 applicants each year, the highly selective Residency Program brings the very best of the best right here to serve our community. In nearly four decades, the Residency Program has graduated 240 family physicians, with more than half of those graduates staying in Pennsylvania, and almost 60 physicians continuing to practice right here in our region.

Our Residency Program is nationally ranked for its family medicine training and is specifically sought after for training family physicians in obstetrics. Family medicine residents are attracted to our completely integrated curriculum and full access to patients and services without competition of other residency programs. Residents are trained by family medicine faculty but also have the chance to work with and learn from other specialists within the health system. In this way, the Residency Program can foster the specific interests of each resident while providing a solid family medicine education.

What makes the program so valuable is not just the opportunities it provides residents but the opportunity it brings to the community. The Williamsport Family Medicine residents are responsible for many advancements and services Susquehanna Health provides for our community. Beyond supporting our family medicine doctors, they make their own local impact through volunteerism. Recently, a team of residents developed a support group for women who have experienced a miscarriage in their second or third trimester.

Residents also volunteer within our schools to teach our teens about the dangers of drugs and alcohol and to provide support for high school sporting events. Those interested in sports medicine are drawn to Williamsport and can serve as a team physician during the Little League World Series. In addition to these services, residents also run a pre-natal clinic for underinsured women, a public STD clinic and a free clinic at St. Anthony's Center.

The Residency Program provides top-quality education and experience to these physicians, and, in turn, Susquehanna Health attracts and retains the best family physicians to care for our community.

GENERATIONS OF FAMILY MEDICINE RESIDENCY GRADUATES

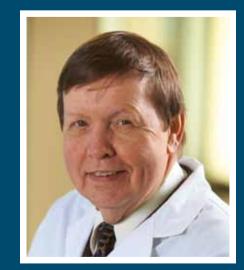

"It's exactly what a family medicine program should be. The cooperation and mentorship opportunities foster that true family atmosphere."

–Dr. Sarah McElroy Family Medicine at Lock Haven Class of 2011

"As a graduate of the program and a full-time faculty member, I can attest that the new center will mean EVERYTHING for this program. It will help us recruit the best candidates and be instrumental in our mission of raising the level of primary care in this region."

–Dr. Elizabeth Anderson Assistant Director, Williamsport Family Medicine Residency Class of 1991

"The in-hospital training was ahead of its time, allowing me to interact with physicians and develop relationships that helped me continue in private practice for more than 20 years."

"Without this Residency, we wouldn't be as capable of recruiting the expert physicians we do into this rural area. Access to a higher level of healthcare would have never evolved," says Dr. Bradley Miller, Program Director of the Williamsport Family Medicine Residency.

Outgrowing the Current Facility

Rapidly advancing technology and the growing patient population have caused the program to outgrow its cramped quarters in the basement level of the Williamsport Regional Medical Center's 699 Rural Avenue Medical Office Building. Although the residents perform to and exceed national "best practice" standards, the facility does not meet those high requirements.

New Facility, Renewed Hope

The Continuing the Innovation Capital Campaign includes the construction of a state-of-the-art clinical and teaching facility for the Family Medicine Residency.

The new facility puts residents at the heart of the community they serve, allowing more space for collaboration and group care through diabetes and pregnancy clinics.

The Center will help further the Residency Program's increasing participation in research, training initiatives and collaborative projects with prestigious medical institutions. In turn, the Residency Program inspires the rest of the medical staff to explore the latest healthcare trends.

We Need Your Help

The Williamsport Family Medicine Residency looks to the community for financial support of this endeavor. With the new facility, the Residency Program will be able to sustain its value and continue its service to the community. The Continuing the Innovation Capital Campaign is a promise to our generation and future generations that the best in family medicine will continue to be available right here in our region.

CELEBRATING LEGACIES

The Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler Foundation commemorates former judge with a generous gift to Susquehanna Health.

Nearly one hundred guests attended the Sunday, November 4, dedication at Williamsport Regional Medical Center for the newly renovated and expanded Emergency Department. The event paid tribute to Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler as well as the former Honorable Judge Malcolm Muir. The Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler Foundation contributed $3 million to the renovation and expansion of the Emergency Department and named the area in honor of Donald's cousin, Judge Malcolm Muir.

"His legacy was truth and fairness," says Sister Teresa Ann Jacobs, Director of Sponsorship for the Sisters of Christian Charity. It is

Sisters of Christian Charity. It is only fitting that this department, serving those who are most in need, will bear Judge Malcolm Muir's name. He left a legacy of traditional moral values and a genuine passion for helping others. Within this legacy, The Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler Foundation saw its mission and values reflected. "Don would be proud that his Foundation could perpetuate Judge Muir's memory," says Sherill T. Moyer, Esquire, Stabler Foundation Board Member.

"We do not know what the future holds, and good health is never guaranteed," says Sherry Watts, Vice President of Development at Susquehanna Health. "What is guaranteed is that more people will have the means to good health because of this new Emergency Department. Generations to come will benefit from the Stablers' generosity and their Foundation's foresight."

The new Emergency Department is twice the size of the previous space. It features 38 private treatment rooms, two critical care rooms and specialty CAT scan and radiology suites. The enhancements allow for quicker evaluations and treatments for growing local communities.

"The difference between the quality and availability of healthcare depends upon the generosity of donors," says Steven P. Johnson, President & CEO of Susquehanna Health. Without the generous support of The Donald B. and Dorothy L. Stabler Foundation, necessary improvements to the Emergency Department at Williamsport Regional Medical Center would not have been possible.

Judge Muir's son Malcolm Muir Jr. believes his father would see the facility's expansion as an "emblem of our community's growth." Just as our great city has improved over time with the help of its people, the new Emergency Department has improved the quality and availability of local healthcare. KATHRYNM. FREEMAN RACE FOR OVARIAN CANCER

Kimberly & Kathryn Breeman

The Kathryn M. Freeman Race for Ovarian Cancer is building awareness of ovarian cancer and raising funds to help women become empowered in their healthcare. The event is a ray of light that emerged from sadness when this beloved wife and mother's life ended too soon.

Kathryn was devoted to her family. She was kind and non-judgmental toward everyone—strangers and friends. Her daughter Kimberly's friends teased that a visit to her family farm in the Williamsport area was like staying at a bed and breakfast because Kathryn made them feel at home with great food and pampering.

She took care of everyone, but like so many women, she was slow to address her own health concerns. By the time she was diagnosed with ovarian cancer, it had progressed to stage 4. She passed away in June 2010.

A few months before Kathryn died, Kimberly was running in her first half-marathon on a miserable, cold, rainy day. About halfway through the race, Kimberly began thinking about her mother and wishing Kathryn could cheer her on like she did when Kimberly ran track at Loyalsock Township High School. Glancing at the sky she noticed a single crack in the clouds where light was trying to make its way through. In that moment Kimberly felt as if her mother was pushing through all the negativity—illness, bad weather, the difficult run—to be with her.

To Kimberly, that beam of light symbolized how Kathryn was in life—a small bright spot prevailing over darkness. So when her mother's life ended, Kimberly wanted to do something positive in her memory and established the race, a half-marathon and five-mile walk. She includes information about ovarian cancer on the race website and invites people to write about their experiences with the disease. She hears from survivors as well as those who have lost beloved women in their lives to the disease. These interactions affirm Kimberly's desire to encourage women to put their healthcare needs in the forefront.

After a successful first race in November 2011, the 2012 event grew both in the number of participants and in fundraising strength because runners and walkers were encouraged to solicit donations. Kimberly was pleased to see people run and walk in honor and memory of individuals who had ovarian cancer as well as have survivors participate. The 2012 event yielded a little more than $17,500, which was given to Susquehanna Health's Spirit of Women program to use toward a guest speaker for Girls' Night Out in October 2013. This event, along with future programs, will provide hundreds of women the opportunity to learn more about the causes, symptoms, treatment plans and prevention of ovarian cancer.

The national Spirit of Women program came to Susquehanna Health in 2011. It's a free membership program available to women of all ages and aimed at helping them gain valuable, even lifesaving, information to manage their health and become informed healthcare consumers. Girls' Night Out, one of Spirit of Women's signature events, is an October evening event that combines health education and screenings with fun and pampering.

"The big thing with mom was that she knew something was wrong, but she didn't take time for herself. She was always worried about everyone else," Kimberly explains. "There aren't many programs in the area aimed at empowering women in their healthcare, but Spirit of Women is all about educating women and having them be proactive. I thought this was a great way to honor my mother."

Kimberly, who just completed her first marathon, still thinks of her mother every time she runs. She plans to continue holding the race each November and hopes she can garner a team of volunteers to help with the growing fundraising event.

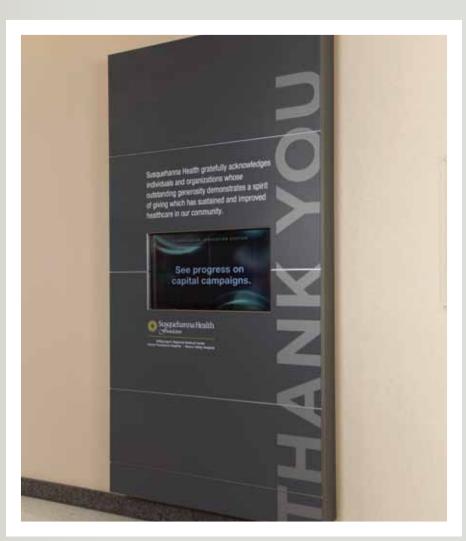

"Losing a mother is horrible. To know that we are raising awareness about ovarian cancer and encouraging women to be aware of their bodies and to take the first step to see their doctor when there's a problem, then that is something positive that can come out of it," she says.

Ask Dr. Joseph English about his impressive contributions to Susquehanna Health and the Williamsport community, and he's quick to point out that it was all possible because of the support and strength of his wife.

"Ginny has really done the lion's share of the work," says Dr. English. "While I was attending meetings or getting called into work, she was raising five kids and up to her neck in Boy Scout and Girl Scout activities. She has also been an outstanding volunteer in the community and has met every challenge in a very, very positive way."

Born and raised in Williamsport, Dr. English returned to what he calls the most beautiful area in the world in 1963. A graduate of Bucknell University, he earned his medical degree at Temple University, completed active duty in Korea for the United States Army and was ready to set up a family practice while caring for his aging parents. He met Ginny at Williamsport Hospital, now Williamsport Regional Medical Center, the setting for many great events in his life including the births of their five children, Linda, Andrew, David, Christopher and Patrick, and the place where he has enjoyed a very long and successful career.

Sugarburg

Over the years Dr. English and his wife have made financial contributions to the health system and recently made a Caduceus Society gift to support new building and renovation projects.

"The changes we are seeing through building projects are helping the system provide excellent medical care, and so many different kinds of medical care. There are specialties here for just about everything, and we do it very well," says Dr. English. "Steve Johnson [Susquehanna Health President & CEO] is excellent at watching the progression in medicine across the nation and ensuring that we are providing the most up-to-date care right here." easier for the community. It helped cut costs and gave people many more opportunities to have medical services. It really opened up a larger number of facilities to the population here and with so many specialties and programs including free screenings and other health activities."

A year after the merger, Dr. English left administration and worked solely

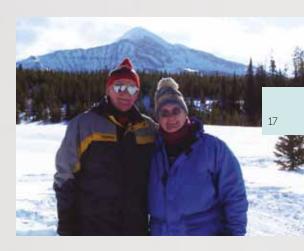

"There are specialties here for just about everything, and we do it very well."

– DR. JOSEPH ENGLISH

Dr. English knows something about creating new healthcare services for the community. In 1970, he and five other physicians collaborated to provide 24-hour emergency coverage for the community and started the Emergency Department at Williamsport Hospital. He became Vice President and Medical Director of Williamsport Hospital in 1992, serving on the administration team when the hospital merged with Divine Providence Hospital and Muncy Valley Hospital to become Susquehanna Health.

"Certainly during that time we were at the forefront of change," says Dr. English recalling the merger. "It was such a great decision. It was very inefficient having three hospitals competing in the same small area, and when we came together it made things in the Emergency Department. In recent years he has provided occupational health services two to five days a week for Susquehanna Health's WorkCenter, a service area that's growing due to the demand for healthcare created by the Marcellus Shale Industry.

In addition to his contributions to the medical community, Dr. English has served his country and his community. After retiring from the Army Reserves with 26 years of service, he joined the Navy and served in Operation Desert Storm, remaining in the Navy Reserves for an additional 10 years. He has been an active volunteer in the Boy Scouts of America for 68 years and has served the Thomas Taber Museum, the Lycoming Historical Society, Kiwanis and his church. His entire family shares a love of the outdoors. They are avid downhill skiers who have all been active with the National Ski Patrol as well as ski instructors and ski racers. He and Ginny are looking forward to getting back out in the snow after successful knee replacement surgeries at Susquehanna Health. They also enjoy hiking, fishing, camping, hunting, snowmobiling, snorkeling and visits with their eight grandchildren.

"I've had a very exciting life, a very good and long life, and with my wonderful wife by my side, I've been able to do a lot of things," Dr. English explains.

YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS AT WORK

SUSQUEHANNA HEALTH SPORTS MEDICINE WORKSHOP INSPIRES FUTURE ATHLETIC TRAINERS

A three-season athlete from Warrior Run High School in Turbotville, Micah Watts attended Susquehanna Health's Basic and Advanced Athletic Trainers' Workshops as a sophomore and junior in 2005 and 2006. Now Micah works as an Outreach Athletic Trainer for the Sports Medicine Center that gave him his start. Trainer, who developed the Workshop. "With so many other types of camps, we've survived the test of time." First-year students earn CPR certification while learning about anatomy and common injuries, including concussions, as well as taping techniques. They also take a field trip to Lock Haven University's

"The best part of my job is that immediacy of helping an athlete upon injury," explains Micah Watts.

Athletic Trainers' Workshops are week-long educational day camps for students at the 14 area school districts served by the Sports Medicine Center, as well as other interested school districts. The 21-year-old program has inspired more than 50 students to pursue careers in sports medicine and athletic training. Others have gained skills to help their school's certified athletic trainer while learning the basics of how to prevent and treat sports injuries.

"We're really proud of the program," says Mike Ludwikowski, MS, ATC, Coordinator of Outreach Athletic Training Services and Staff Athletic sports medicine/health science facilities. The advanced students build on their skills and delve into more intensive injuries and rehabilitative techniques. At each level, participants receive a college-level textbook.

The Sports Medicine Center's outreach athletic trainers lead the Workshops. "There's a lot that we cover, but we keep the pace up and make it fun with quiz games that help to reinforce what we're teaching," Mike says.

A majority of the funding is raised through the annual Susquehanna Health Sports Medicine Coaches Invitational Golf Tournament and the Foundation's Wish List (page 26).

Participating high schools benefit from the Workshops as their outreach athletic trainers gain skilled assistants to support athletes in up to 16 PIAA interscholastic sports. Students are exposed to careers in athletic training, emergency medical training, physical therapy and orthopedics. Mike has also connected interested participants with professionals for shadowing and internships.

Micah's second Workshop convinced him to study athletic training. When he began classes at Lock Haven University, he felt his experience gave him an advantage. He also valued the connections that he made with both students and Certified Athletic Trainers. As a student athlete, he knew who to go to with an injury at another school.

Micah is thankful for his opportunity with the Student Athletic Trainers' Workshops and that his connection with Mike helped him break into the profession. He looks forward to giving back by helping at the Workshops that got him started in a career he enjoys.

Telehealth monitoring provides doctors a daily snapshot of the patient's condition as they recover from a recent hospital stay or learn to regulate their chronic condition at home. Not only does the technology allow doctors to detect subtle health changes that could lead to larger issues, but it assists patients in becoming more independent in their home healthcare.

With the help of this technology, doctors are more able to prevent re-hospitalization and emergency room visits, promote healthy diet and activities, and modify medications in order to heal patients faster. The interactive home monitoring is primarily for patients with congestive heart failure or pulmonary disease but can now be used for individuals with heart disease or expectant mothers experiencing high blood pressure.

How it Works

Telehealth monitoring utilizes equipment such as a telephone or satellite connection, a monitor the size of a calculator and a scale. A home care nurse evaluates the patient and their home environment before setting up the system to ensure it can be used safely and successfully. Patient participation in daily monitoring is essential, but patients will also receive weekly home visits as part of their complete healthcare services.

The monitor will prompt patients in a friendly voice to begin their daily fiveminute assessment and then proceed to check their vital signs, blood pressure, pulse, weight and blood/oxygen levels. It will also ask the patient a series Thanks to generous gifts from The Park Home, Inc. and our donors, Susquehanna Health Home Care & Hospice was able to receive 30 new telehealth monitoring systems.

of questions based on their current condition. Each answer the patient gives determines the next question, until the assessment is complete. Data gathered by the telehealth monitor is transmitted to a web-based system monitored by a nurse seven days a week, including holidays.

Attention 24/7

The benefit of telehealth monitoring is that it's not limited to scheduled daily assessments. Patients who are not feeling quite right can use the monitor at any time, day or night, to confirm all vital signs are on track.

Through the monitoring system, home care service providers can also remind and confirm that patients have taken their medication and alert them of other situations, such as severe weather conditions.

Telehealth monitoring gives patients peace of mind in all aspects of their healthcare, from letting them know they are progressing to helping them build confidence in their independent care ability. Susquehanna Health Home Care δ Hospice patients who have received these telehealth monitoring systems are beyond grateful for the donors who have helped to get their health and lifestyle back on track.

The COMMANDER FLEX® telehealth monitoring system from Cardiocom® keeps home care patients and healthcare providers connected.

Young Men's Democratic Club OF LYCOMING COUNTY, INC.

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Lycoming County, Inc., has a tradition of helping the community. The Club has generously contributed more than $8,000 to Susquehanna Health since 1997.

"We are a very broad, caring group. We are here to help the community that's one of our main goals," says Alesandria "Sandy" Hughes, treasurer and responsible officer. Many of the Club's 700 members, happy to participate," Sandy says. "We have two employees who are breast cancer survivors, and many of our members have experienced the dreaded disease in the form of breast cancer, prostate, ovarian and individuals who try to comfort you when they must deliver the bad news. And, the Hospice staff, they too are just like angels who have been sent to you. The compassion and love that they give to families

"As a survivor, who has been through the Cancer Center, I know you will not find a better group of caring, loving, affectionate angels to take care of you and give you the necessary treatments."

-SANDY HUGHES, TREASURER AND RESPONSIBLE OFFICER

ranging in age from 23 to 85, have benefited from the services of Susquehanna Health Home Care & Hospice, The Gatehouse (Inpatient Hospice Unit) and the Kathryn Candor Lundy Breast Health Center. Each of those services has received numerous gifts from the Club over the years. The Club recently made a $1,000 gift to support Susquehanna Health Home Care & Hospice, $500 to support the Breast Health Center and another $1,000 to help with renovations at The Gatehouse.

"Any financial assistance we can offer to organizations that help to maintain quality of life for those suffering, that is what we are about, and we are lung cancer, including me; so, we are very connected to the services provided by Susquehanna Health Hospice, The Gatehouse, Breast Health Center and Cancer Center."

"As a survivor, who has been through the Cancer Center, I know you will not find a better group of caring, loving, affectionate angels to take care of you and give you the necessary treatments," Sandy continues. The care begins with the oncology staff, the radiation staff and filters right down to the infusion and clerical staff.

At the Breast Health Center, Dr. Susan Branton and her staff are such caring and individuals is just what is needed during the time of waiting for our loved ones to pass. I do not know about other facilities that offer these services, but the services offered at Susquehanna Health cannot be beat."

The Foundation wishes a fond farewell to longtime employee Cheryl Chapman, Special Events Coordinator, who retired February 1, after more than 38 years of service.

Cheryl began working in the Foundation office on January 19, 1998, and was involved as the foundations of then Williamsport Hospital and Divine Providence Hospital came together following the alliance that formed Susquehanna Health System. During her 15 years with the Foundation, Cheryl has helped with special events, open houses and donor-related celebrations while coordinating the golf tournaments for the Kathryn Candor Lundy Breast Health Center, Sports Medicine Center, Muncy Valley Hospital and the annual Susquehanna Health Golf Tournament (previously known as the Lefty Wagner Golf Tournament).

"Cheryl has made such an impact in our office and our community. We are thankful for the time, skills and positive energy she has brought to make each event a success, and for her incredible organizational skills and attention to detail," says Sherry Watts, Vice President of Development.

Long before her work at the Foundation, Cheryl attended the School of Medical Transcription at Williamsport Hospital in 1973 and became the secretary for the newly created Recreational Therapy department at Williamsport Hospital in 1974. After eight years and a brief stint in Human Resources, Cheryl was asked to work in the corporate office while a search to replace President & CEO Clive Waxman ensued. In 1984, when Don Creamer was selected as the next President & CEO of Williamsport Hospital, she became his assistant until just before his retirement 17 years later.

Cheryl is sad to say goodbye, but she is excited about the next chapter of her life with her husband, Dale, which will include lots of time for family, friends, fishing, skiing and traveling around the country on their motorcycle.

"I value the friendships I've made here over the years; they will last a lifetime," she says. "I am proud to have been a part of the work we have done and definitely one of the highlights was the bringing together of the area's hospitals to work for the good of the community."

In 2012, Ronald McDonald House Charities of NEPA, Inc. generously donated $20,000 to The Birthplace at Williamsport Regional Medical Center. Their donation made the Education and Conference Room a reality within Susquehanna Tower's new Birthplace. This room provides a high-tech and specially dedicated area to educate more than 1,250 patients and their families as well as 65 staff members on an annual basis. Pictured left to right are Keith Artley, McDonald's Director of Operations; Doug Doherty, McDonald's Owner/ Operator and Ronald McDonald House Charities Board Member; Kimberly Hunter, Supervisor of The Birthplace; Patricia Miller, Manager of Mother/ Child/Baby; Daniel Rafferty, McDonald's General Manager; and Alice Grabowski, McDonald's Manager.

Hospitalists Role in Patient Care

Did you know there are physicians who specialize in taking care of hospital patients from admission to discharge? They're called hospitalists.

Over the last 10 years Susquehanna Health has developed a team of 16 hospitalists, all board certified in internal medicine, to provide round-the-clock care for patients at Williamsport Regional Medical Center. Hospitalists have the same training as other medical doctors, but rather than working in a practice and seeing patients outside the hospital, their work is exclusively in the hospital.

During a typical day, a hospitalist makes rounds to evaluate patients, determines whether patients should be admitted to the hospital, plans their hospital care, orders tests and checks results. The hospitalist also determines when the patient can be discharged and ensures that arrangements are made for any required follow-up treatments. Hospitalists also consult with specialists on cases when needed.

"During my residency I did both inpatient and outpatient care, and I found that I preferred the inpatient care," says Dr. Luke Stefanile, Associate Medical Director of the Hospitalist Program. "This was around the time the hospitalist field was really beginning to develop, and it seemed perfect to me. I like that it keeps me up to date, and I see a variety of patients who are sicker than I would see in a family medicine setting. It gives me the opportunity to help different types of patients."

The hospitalists admit patients at Williamsport Regional Medical Center through the Emergency Department as well as directly from family physician offices. They also do consultations for surgical patients if a medical need arises after surgery. They keep each patient's primary care physician apprised of changes in condition and treatment. In addition to a faxed report within 24 hours of admission, all updates to the patient's electronic medical records are available to physicians within Susquehanna Health Medical Group. The patient's primary care physician also receives a discharge summary that includes information about the care the patient received and recommended follow-up treatment.

"When I came to work at Susquehanna Health, the hospitalist program was just eight months old. I saw that they were very accommodating and very dedicated to developing a high-quality hospitalist program, and they have been true to that commitment," says Dr. Stefanile.

Key benefits for patients are accessibility and efficiency. Hospitalists are physically in the same building, so there's less waiting and more one-on-one time to address a patient's needs. This presence typically expedites the process for admission, discharge and other decisions about care throughout the day. The hospitalist can effectively communicate with the patient's healthcare team and is familiar with the routines and best practices at the hospital to potentially reduce a patient's stay and improve the overall quality of care.

"I think there's a great deal of satisfaction for the patient and family," says Dr. Stefanile. "We can be very efficient. We're right here to answer questions and evaluate any changes, so there's less waiting for the patient and family members."

Dr. Bosede Afolabi

HEART & VASCULAR INSTITUTE

Susquehanna Health Heart & Vascular Institute is pleased to welcome Dr. Bosede Afolabi to its team.

Dr. Afolabi is board certified in internal medicine and cardiovascular disease. She possesses a high level of expertise and training, including fellowships and a residency in electrophysiology and cardiology from the University of Florida and Cleveland Clinic.

Electrophysiology is the specialized treatment of heart rhythm disorders using medical management and procedures such as ablation or device implantation. Individuals with existing heart disease are at the greatest risk of heart rhythm disorders, which can be present with no symptoms. Be aware of symptoms including palpitations, dizziness, fainting or chest pain.

Dr. Afolabi joins Doctors Bering, Blum, Burks, Morcos, Nardone, Shafique and Trautwein in helping to deliver comprehensive heart care to the community. The Susquehanna Health Heart & Vascular Institute is located at Williamsport Regional Medical Center. Dr. Afolabi is welcoming new patients and referrals. To schedule an appointment, please call (570) 321-2800.
